

I understand the Federal Communication Commission is considering overturning New Jersey's 'Do Not Call' law because it is more stringent than the federal program.

I am opposed to any changes because, as a father of two little girls, I look forward to the special time we share each evening. Due to the fact that our children are young and they go to bed early, I only have two hours to spend with them. This time is precious to me and prior to the "Do Not Call List", that precious time was often interrupted two or three times per night.

The various forms of media are cautioning families to carve time out of their hectic schedules to sit down and share meals together and to set aside some special time for family activities. My wife and I make an extra effort to do this while our children are young in order to instill an appreciation of family togetherness and values that will stay with them throughout their teenage and young adult life. Therefore, families are entitled to privacy and should not have the numerous interruptions that telemarketing creates.

Please do not overturn the NJ Do Not Call law.
